Stan's Cafe

Of All The People In The World

For this beautifully simple performance Stan's Cafe convert human population statistics into a landscape of labelled rice piles in which one grain = one person. In this way numbers once abstract and difficult to grasp are given physical scale, become easy to understand and gain a powerful emotional kick.

By arranging these statistics in careful relationship to each other Stan's Cafe create a piece that is politically engaged, subtly witty, shocking and humane. It is educational, poetic and provocative. Audiences regularly laugh out loud, admit to being brought to the edge of tears and leave saying this installation has changed the way in which they look at the world.

A Talawa Double Bill Love in Gravitational Waves by Testament and Bougie Lanre's Boulangerie by Kareem Parkins Brown

Bougie Lanre's Boulangerie is an existential poetry talk show
chronicling acclaimed poet
Kareem Parkins-Brown's

years working in the hospitality industry, attempting to make ends meet as a Black, working-class artist who cares more about craft than consumerism.

Love in Gravitational Waves by Testament is a two-hander that is inspired by multi-generational interviews with over 40 people that articulates the vapid nature of contemporary dating through a fast-paced comedy-drama about the forces that bring us together and push us apart. After her breakup, we follow Bronwyn; a woman who decides to exclusively date men who have the opposite views to her. It's about love, politics, bridging the gap in a divided world... and a serial killer.

In Pursuit of Repetitive Beats

Image: Phil McNulty

‘Utterly convincing and utterly brilliant’

The List

From poster-strewn bedrooms to pirate radio stations, police headquarters to secret warehouses, step into the shoes of rave culture pioneers as you go in search of the party.

Witness this social phenomenon first-hand, in a VR experience set at the end of a turbulent decade in the UK. Combining Acid House tracks with interactivity and multi-sensory simulation.

In Pursuit of Repetitive Beats brings to life the stories of the promoters, police officers, and rave-goers, whose rivalries and relationships drove a revolution in music and society.

Book your ticket back to 1989 to share in an experience that shaped a generation; to feel the anticipation, the trepidation, the excitement, and the euphoria that was Acid House.

Breach Theatre

After the Act

Image: Alex Brenner

A new 1980's-inspired musical about pride, protest...and abseiling lesbians.

Thatcher's Section 28, which banned the "promotion" of homosexuality in schools, was the landmark legislation that silenced a generation, offered a global blueprint for LGBTQ+ oppression and galvanised a movement.

After the Act is funny, camp and unapologetically queer but also a clear-eyed exposure of the political playbook used to enact repressive laws.

'Fizzing, fiery...This musical feels exceptional'

Guardian

Its joyously exuberant original live score accompanies the inspiring, sometimes heart-breaking, stories of teachers, students and activists impacted by the legislation. This is the story of how a moral panic gripped a nation - and a community decided to fight back.

Beethoven Overture, Egmont

Shostakovich Violin Concerto No. 1

Sibelius Symphony No. 5

Edward Gardner conductor

Patricia Kopatchinskaja violin

Sibelius sees a flight of swans on a summer evening, and hears a melody that could have been wrought from the elements. Beethoven shakes his fist at tyranny, and sounds a fanfare for freedom. And Shostakovich whispers secrets in the shadows, in a concerto that refuses to be silent. It's all about memory, and all about truth.

Dance Consortium and Brighton Dome presents

Qudus Onikeku | The QDance Company

Re:INCARNATION

This is Afrodance, celebrating the creative dance energy of Lagos

Nigeria's celebrated QDance Company explode onto the stage with their exuberant Re:INCARNATION.

An ode to the riches of Nigerian culture, this dance, music, fashion and visual art fusion mixes ancient Yoruba philosophy with the rhythm and spirit of the country's hyper-vibrant youth culture, bursting with pure and uncompromising joy.

Ten young dancers and two musicians perform the cycle of life with explosive energy, marked by the urban chaos of the Nigerian city of Lagos.

Paying homage to the wealth and profusion of Nigerian music, the show draws on Afrobeats, born of an explosive cocktail of jazz, soul, funk, and traditional African music. In this mix of urban cultures, a reincarnation of the personal journeys of each of the dancers comes to the fore, marked by their individual signatures.

Solera

Grace – distinction – age... words often used in describing the character and qualities of a well-nurtured wine... a 'solera' wine.

For the people in Andalucía, the word solera also depicts the subtle elegance, pose and style that a person may exude in their mature years.

Flamenco is not a written tradition but one handed down the generations, constantly striving to find different ways to express, so the best of performances will incorporate what has been created by the great practitioners of the past, whether singers, dancers or guitarists. Solera presents the raw talent of young artists together with the elegant, understated authority of an older, wiser generation.

Sophie Nüzel Projects

Stories of a Watersprite

Amongst drifting waterweed and ancient moss-covered rocks, a Watersprite awakens. Down here the pond is teeming with life - newts and snails and little silver fish dart around, busy with their business.

But, strange things are starting to enter the pond. Things that crinkle and clatter and clutter up the pond. So much of it that there is no more space to swim and slither around.

Sophie Nüzel's work for children and families is a gentle and multi-sensory dance and puppetry production. It invites young audiences to use their imagination and believe that regardless of how little they are they can still make a difference.
